

4 RUE DE PALESTINE,
PARIS
4-ROOM APARTMENT
1,250 SQUARE FEET
CONTACT:
AGENCY DU CARTIER

(+)

9:17 A.M.

I SPY WITH MY LITTLE EYE...

...something you can't see!

Smart glasses like Google Glass know (almost) everything. From a huge pool of information, users can pick and choose the facts they need—in real time. While a user is walking down the street, the device gathers all the available data about the surroundings. Depending on which direction the user looks, certain information is conveyed to the databank via GPS and Wi-Fi. A plus sign appears in front of the user's eye to indicate more content is available. Once the application is activated, advertisements for apartment rentals can be read directly on the pertinent buildings. There is also information about restaurants, ATMs, shops, and train stations. In order for retrieved data to be as accurate as possible, an image database must be available, just like Google Street View.

come onto the market sometime in 2014 and currently cost $1,500. For anyone who is planning a purchase, experts advise: It's better to wait for the second or third version—by then the technical errors will be corrected.

<http://iddi.us/seeingthroughglass>
<http://iddi.us/glassreview>

VIDEOS ABOUT GOOGLE GLASS

STIFF COMPETITION

In addition to Google Glass, other smart glasses will be coming onto the market sometime in 2014. Each has special features. We present the best of the bunch...

GOOGLE GLASS BY GOOGLE

Due on the market: April 2014; Price: $1,500

Special features: route planner, search function, camera, video recorder

#1

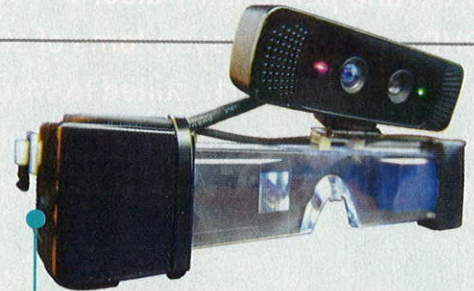

ORA BY OPTINVENT

Due on the market: mid-2014; Price: $950

Special features: display is viewable as a panorama or a close-up

#2

METAPRO SPACEGLASSES BY META

Due on the market: early 2014; Price: $3,650

Special features: infrared camera, real-time 3-D holographic display interface

#3

RECON JET BY RECON INSTRUMENTS

Due on the market: spring 2014; Price: $599

Special features: altimeter, magnetometer, barometer, thermometer

#4

STAR 1200XLD BY VUZIX

Due on the market: pre-order only; Price: $4,999

Special features: camera with 3-D display in HD quality

#5